Commercial Life Low Cost All Guaranteed Monthly Income Policies

How many husbands have left their families comfortably off, but with no experience to guide them in the investment and use of money?

How many women have lived to see the savings of a lifetime lost through speculation or "sure things" of glib-tongued salesmen, or through the well-meaning but impractical advice of relatives.

A Commercial Life cheque, placed in the hands of your wife each month for twenty years, will guarantee that your wishes will be carried out in providing your family with the necessities of life, education for your children, and, above all, enable them to avoid the humiliation of accepting charity.

The following are a few specimen rates on the Twenty Payment Life plan for THE COMMERCIAL LIFE SPECIAL LOW COST MONTHLY INCOME POLICY, PROVIDING AN INCOME OF $50.00 PER MONTH FOR 20 YEARS

	Age	Annual	Semi-Annual	Quarterly	Monthly
This Policy is Guaranteed Paid-up in 20 Years	20----	$167.50	$ 85.40	$ 43.15	$14.50

PROLOGUE

Opening fanfare.

Diamond Jubilee Pages and Attendants herald the coming of the Queen of Progress.

We present the Queen of Progress. Around her we see the vision of hope, the reward of faith, the exploit of courage, the struggle of liberty, the glory of patriotism, the achievement of service, the exaltation of national pride, the power of strength, the devotion of love, the benevolence of charity, the grace of beauty, the richness of fertility, the sincerity of health, the reward of thrift, and the influence of wealth.

The Spirit of Progress presents the Queen with the symbol of Progress, and together they hasten onward.

THE PROGRESS PROCESSION TO THE COURT OF HONOR

We Look Back Over the Years

In the Sixteenth Century the territory which is now Canada was a wild, unexplored, unowned land. The fishing banks along its shores were frequented by hardy seamen from France, Spain, Portugal, as well as England.

These enterprising men also carried on fur trade with the natives. Several attempts at colonization on the part of both French and English failed.

A French adventurer-soldier-explorer, a man of very high character, Samuel de Champlain, in the face of untold dangers and hardships, founded the oldest city, in what is now Canada, Quebec, in 1608. The colony was then under the rule of France.

SCENE ONE

We show a scene in Old France, at the time of Champlain, introducing a ballet by a wandering gypsy troupe.

SCENE TWO

"What sought he thus afar?
Bright jewels of the mine?
The wealth of seas? The spoils of war?
Ay, more, he sought a faith's pure shrine.
The soil where first he trod
He left unstained, what first he found,
And kept his faith in God."

We show Samuel de Champlain, the Father of New France, in the new land, accompanied by priests and friars and a company of his men, making historical notes and charts of the country; meeting with Indians, demonstrating to the Indians the strange fire-arms, laying the foundation for his friendship with them, and beginning the work of trying to Christianize these primitive people, an ideal which was a passion with him.

SCENE THREE

Assistance rendered by friendly Indians helped make possible the permanence of the early colonies. Their knowledge of the country, methods of procuring food, the haunts of game, cures for diseases, proved of great value.

Being extremely superstitious, the Indians attached spiritual significance to unusual things in nature.

We show the dance of the Woodland Sprites, and a symbolical Indian dance to the "Spirit of the Waterfall," by Braves, a Chief, and an Indian Princess.

SCENE FOUR

Ownership of the new land for many years became a question merely of survival of the fittest and strongest.

In 1759 Canada came permanently under English influence with the "Fall of Quebec on the Plains of Abraham." General James Wolfe headed the British attacking force. Louis Joseph, Marquis de Montcalm, led the French. The honors were almost equally divided, but the British were victorious. Both leaders were killed in the battle.

We show "The death of General Wolfe," and "Montcalm entering Quebec after the battle," where he died as a result of his wounds.

GROWTH, EXPANSION, GOVERNMENT, CONFEDERATION

With the passing of the years, the colonies prospered and grew. The country was explored far inland, other settlements sprang up, the west opened up, and Canada came to include a vast expanse of territory touching from the Atlantic to the Pacific Oceans. The divisions were known as provinces,

THIS store, founded in 1886, has been identified with the Diamond and Jewelry trade of Edmonton and Northern Alberta since the early pioneer days. Our aim has been to see that every purchase, large or small, shall be satisfactory and that our customers will be pleased to entrust their future business with us. This confidence has enabled us to carry a large and well assorted stock in our various lines for your selection.

and with the growth of population, complexities of government arose. Great Britain recognized the right of the provinces to self-government.

Friction arose between the upper and lower sections of Canada over equal representation in Parliament. Representation by population became a popular cry. In Parliament parties were so evenly balanced that deadlock became a common experience. Between 1861 and 1864 four or five Ministers held office.

Under these circumstances the ideas of union of the Canadas suggested itself. Out of the idea of the federal(?) union of two provinces grew the idea of the union of all provinces.

In 1864 at Quebec, thirty-three delegates representing Canada, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, and Newfoundland, gathered together for the Confederation Conference.

Of French, English, Irish and Scotch descent were these "Fathers of Confederation," who dealt with the question of a union of all the British North American provinces. Delegates were sent to the Imperial Government to secure an Act of Union.

On July 1st, 1867, in the reign of Queen Victoria, the British North America Act came into force, uniting the provinces of Canada, Nova Scotia, and New Brunswick under the name of Canada.

SCENE FIVE

(a) We show a glimpse of the Court of Queen Victoria at the time of the British North America Act.

(b) We show the "Fathers of Confederation" who fostered the idea of union.

(c) The Spirit of Progress presents the Queen of Progress with the attributes of a Greater Canada, "Gold," "Silver," "Farming," "Mining," "Literature," "Transportation," "Music," "Art," "Science," "Manufacturing."

(d) We show the placing of the Seal of Authority on the British North America Act, making Confederation a Reality.

Oldsmobile Wins by Comparison

The Car You Can Recommend To Your Best Friend

EVERY day Oldsmobile Owners recommend their cars to their friends—and this is why:

They selected Oldsmobile for what it could do and how it did it.

They chose it for the quality of craftsmanship so evident in even minor details, for its beauty, for its smoothness, for its power, for its nimbleness in traffic and its handling ease.

Then in the crucial test of trial by mile, they found it asked no favors and feared no road.

Their judgment stands confirmed.

WATCH THOSE GYROS—Gyro Carnival, Sept. 5-10

APPRECIATION

To all members of the Pageant Cast, who so cheerfully gave their time and energy in rehearsals; to the loyal corps of efficient chaperones; to those who assisted in the assembly of talent and all who contributed to the success of the Grand Diamond Jubilee Confederation Pageant of 1927, the Edmonton Exhibition Association and the Pageant Master for the John B. Rogers Producing Co. wish to express their most sincere appreciation and thanks.
